

WHERE YOUR DATA GOES

WITH YOUR NAME
WITHOUT YOUR NAME

SUMMARY
You visit a doctor. Who else gets your data? You might expect the pharmacy, insurance company and maybe even your employer to know some information. Who else? So far, we have documented more than 2000 data sharing arrangements of personal health information in the United States. Most are not covered under Health Information Portability and Accountability Act (or HIPAA), which is the federal medical privacy regulation in the United States.