Your data is more powerful when you're a part of it!

Health data is any information that impacts your health. Health data includes all the determinants of health which include medical information, as well as behavioral, socioeconomic, biological, environmental, and medical.

The benefits of having your health data are, that you can share them between doctors, it can help you make better decisions, and monitor your health.

You even have a legal right to get your Medical Record. Full List of Rights

Are you a researcher or citizen scientist?

We want to help you use our platform! Get started right away with public data available on members' public profiles, and through our Public Data API.

You can also create projects to work directly with members, using APIs and on-site tools! Projects have tons of options: they can ...
